

Press Release 01/2014

Advanced Oncology study program celebrates its third graduates

After a final attendance seminar, filled with examinations, interactive seminars and presentations of their Master's theses, the third class of students - together with the program's scientific director and the supporting team - was able to look back on a successful 2-year study period. Besides the modules on Interdisciplinary Oncology, Clinical Research, Clinical Oncology as well as Management that have been taught since their enrollment in 2012, the program centered on international networking and scientific as well as personal exchange among colleagues, for which the Science Conference Center of Ulm University "Reisensburg Castle" provided the perfect environment. The graduates obtained their "Master of Science" diploma, which was handed over by the Vice President of Studies, Teaching and Internationalisation of Ulm University and the Secretary of the Comprehensive Cancer Center Ulm. The networking part became particularly evident during the farewell party, which was organized by the fourth class for their elder fellow students.

Class 2014: not shown Susan Little, the finisher from Australia

Contact

Ulm University, Medical Faculty
Uta Schmidt-Strassburger, PhD
Scientific Director, Master Online Advanced Oncology Program
Phone +49 (0) 7 31-50 06 94 08
uta.schmidt-strassburger@uni-ulm.de